

Lover's Moon Song

You showered me in stars to bury the dark.
To feel your gentle romance waltz away all hurt.
(in my soul immersed a spark.)

You traced my lips, left a heaven shaped mark.
As moonlight swallowed us in whispering beams.
You showered me in stars to bury the dark.

Aphrodite perched on lover's arc.
Orchestrating young love under celestial skies.
(in my soul immersed a spark.)

A million tender bodies, strung to heart.
Yet entwining your way into my mortal mind.
You showered me in stars to bury the dark.

Enticing were your eyes, held with amorous remark.

Grazing my skin in an impassioned glow.
(in my soul immersed a spark.)

Our destined days of disco in which we embark.
A frolic pair rendering hello to the milky way.
You showered me in stars to bury the dark.
(in my soul immersed a spark.)
